Battle Between Section Hands and Yuma Officers.

Three Men Stand Off a Mob of Angry Strikers.

eral Mexicans Killed and Deputy Sheriff Wilder Wounded - The Bloody Afray Took Place at Mammoth Tank.

(BY THE TIMES' SPECIAL WIRE.) YUMA (Ariz..) Oct. 25.-[Special Dispatch.] A pitched battle at Mamnoth Tank, forty-five miles west of Yuma, b tween Yuma-county officers and 260 Mexican railroad laborers, at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon, resulted in the death of from three to seven Mexicans, the wounding of several more and the dangerous wounding of Deputy Sheriff George Wilder of Yuma.

For a quarter of an hour the fight was fast and furious. No more brilliant and courageous defense against desperate odds has ever been witnessed anywhere. The story of the trouble is about as follows:

Deputy Sheriffs George Wilder and in search of Juan Juerves, a murderer, whose latest victim was José Rodriguez, killed in cold blood day before yesterday at Fortuna, twenty-five miles outheast of here, when 260 Mexicans employed by the company on the road at that point, suddenly struck. Sheriff Mel Greenleaf of Yuma county was on an east-bound passenger train between Los Angeles and Mammoth Tank when he received a telegram from the division superintendent asking him to get off at the point of trouble, arrest the ringleaders of the strike and take them to Yuma. Those in charge of the train were ordered to hold it fifteen Greenieaf joined his deputies, Wilder and Jones, at the station, and together they advanced on the strikers gathered defiantly two hundred yards from the railroad. The men wanted, three in number, were singled out, and two deputies grabbed each a man. Sheriff eaf went directly through the crowd to where the third man stood, but before the officer could reach him fight began. Rocks began to fly,

He was left for dead, and the entire mob now wrought to a perfect frensy started on the run for Section Foreman Stanton, who had accompanied the officers. He fled for his life, and would beyond peradventure have been killed had not Deputy Jones in the mean time secured the messenger's shotgun off the express car, which he Three men fell. They were picked up by their comrades and the advance ied, but another well-directed shot brought more men to the ground. A stampede was the result.

Its Report. [ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.-The board f experts appointed by the Secretary of experts appointed by the Secretary, of the Treasury to establish standards of test under the adulterated-tea act has made a report to the Secretary. The board meets several objections which have been raised to its rulings, and in some instances asks that the existing regulations be amended so as to meet certain other objections. The board states that it will endeavor to find specific standards for teas from Canton, and recommends that authority be granted for the use of the No. 26 sleve, No. 30 wire, to secure perfect uniformity in determining needle leaf. It also recommends that the word "flavor," as used in the present regulations, be considered as an index of quality and fitness for consumption, and be not limited to the particular characteristics of the tea districts from which the tea comes. The recommendations of the board will be adopted by the Treasury Department. The board also asks that a meeting be called early in December to establish tea standards for the coming year. of the Treasury to establish standards

"As the result of the conciliatory at-As the result of the conciliatory at-titude lately adopted by Japan toward Hawaii," said Lorin A. Thurston today, "the immigration controversy between the two governments will, I confidently expect, be submitted to arbitration at an early date." Thurston was formerly Minister from Hawaii to the United States, and is now in charge of the affairs of that gov-ernment in the absence of Minister Hatch. Thurston left tonight for the West.

"Japan," he said, "in her latest note formally specifies the issues she is willing to arbitrate. The central issue is whether the enforcement of laws passed by the Hawaiian Legislature regarding the admission of immigrants is in conflict with the rights given her by treaties existing between the two governments. Hawaii has agreed to submit to arbitration the points sug-gested by Japan, except in some minor details. Japan in her first no'e sug-gested that the King of Belgium be asked to not as arbitrator. As is not satisfactory, however, to Hawaii. The State Department has received from Minister Sewall assurances of the same character as those referred to by Thurston.

DEMORALIZED RATES.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—Italian laborers who are leaving points in the North and Northwest for warmer places in which to work during the winter, are responsible for a serious demoralization in rates between St. Paul and Chiin rates between St. Paul and Chi-cago, and between Chicago and Den-ver. The rates now in effect between St. Paul and Chicago run anywhere from $3 to $6, the agreed rate being $3,65. From Chicago to Denver the Italians have also demoralized the rates. The competition has been so keen for this business. that, although the regular rate is $29.50, the roads are, when necessary, taxing the business at $10, a cut of $19.50. Chairman Caldwell has notified all of the interested roads that a lower rate than the regular tariff should not be made but for all that, the Italians who wish can go from Chicago to Denver for $10.

He says the dimensions of the concrete docks should be as follows: Length of floor, 656 feet; width of entrance, 95 feet, and floor of dock to be 4 feet below still. Spain's Reply to Woodford's Note Cuts no Ice.

Charges of Bad Faith by This Gov-ernment Will be Firmly Met. Weyler's Report on His Opera-tions in Cuba.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25 .- It is not oubted among officials that the basis of the Spanish reply to Mr. Wood-ford's note will be the charge that the United States has not observed the requirements of international law in the matter of preventing filibustering. requirements of international law in the matter of preventing filibustering. In this case, the State Department will have some pertinent facts to pre-sent, which the officials believe will completely alienate from Spain any sympathy that she may have con-tracted from any Europeans on that score. It is asserted, positively, that in no single case where the Spanish authorities have brought to the attention of our government the fact that an illegal expedition was about to start from our shores for Cuba has it neglected to use all the means permitted by our laws to prevent

Altogether the officials here are confident of their ability to show that the government has more than compiled the requirements of international law, which, as laid down in the Ala bama award, simple demands that a nation "use due diligence" to prevent the departure of hostile expeditions As intimations have been made that the instructions to Minister Woodford may be made public at Madrid, the statement is made by officials here that to acquiesce in the American demands."

The Times' editorial is based upon letters from Madrid, describing the situation, the second of which appears today, dated October 18, the writer prefacing his remarks, says: "Circumstances and not American pressure produced the change of ministry." He adds: "Were Canovas still alive he would probably meet American representations with a haughty non possumus. The Liberals will not go very far in the opposite direction. But it may be hoped that they will not altogether shut their eyes to disagreeable realities, and will at least adopt the ealities, and will at least adopt the ealities, and will at least adopt they arrive at as to the real aims and intentions of the United States, a subject on which there are considerable differences of opinion allowable, as Gen. Woodford's note is capable of various interpretations."

"The government has deferred replying to the note," he continues, "in the hope that the United States would wait for the results of the Sagasta policy. But the general opinion is that this hope will not be realized. If the truth must be told, Gen. Woodford's amicable assurances are regarded by Spaniards as little beyond polite phrases signifying nothing, and intended to cover unjustifiable aggressive designs. The fact that the insurrection was originally hatched in America and is supported from there, is considered proof inally hatched in America and is sup-ported from there, is considered proof that America means to possess Cuba and the tender of their good offices is and the tender of their good offices is regarded as a step in that direction. In support of this view the American correspondents of the Madrid papers assert that an American syndicate with enormous resources and with influential backing at Washington is preparing to buy up the land, rallways, sugar and tobacco factories and industrial under-takings, and is even peoptiating, with tobacco factories and industrial undertakings, and is even negotiating with the rebel leaders with a view to running the new autonomist government, possibly under the nominal sovereignty of Spain, but in any case under the real protection of the United States.

"On the whole, the prospects of Gen.
Woodford obtaining any satisfactory arrangements are not bright. Furthermore, it would be a dangerous error to imagine that the Spaniards are playing a game of bluff. They know they would be beaten, but Castilian pride is willing to accept the consequences." WEYLER'S REPORT.

fied Cuba.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] NEW YORK, Oct. 25 .- A dispatch to the Herald from Havana says: "The publication in Capt.-Gen. Weyler's personal organ, El Guerrillero, of this city, of the general's report to the Ministe of War at Madrid causes much com ment here. . The report commences with the statement that upon his arrival in Havana on February 11, 1896, he found the entire island invaded by may be made public at Madrid, the statement is made by officials here that no publication of the instructions before the assemblage of Congress will be approved by the United States, and without this approval it would be contrary to the usage of diplomacy for Madrid authorities to make public the correspondence.

THE REAL DANGER.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—The Times, after remarking editorially this morning that "the real danger is that America will take some step to precipitate a crisis," says:

"Gen. Woodford's note, like other papers emanating from Washington, cannot be construed by the ordinary rules applicable to diplomatic correspondence. This is fortunate, inasmuch as it contains expressions which, if they came from a European chancelor, must be interpreted as menacing war. But it is fortunate because it makes the meaning of the note ambiguous, that no clear intimation is given of the consequence of a refusal.

As it was, trainload after trainload of curiosity-seekers landed at the stations near the wreck and walked through the drenching rain to stand and stare at the burning embers and mutilated

Of the sixteen dead that lay in the Coroner's office at Cold Springs, eight were heathen foreigners whose names or residence meant scarcely anything to the general public, and yet six of those eight were identified and claimed long before any person had come forward to inquire or seek for two well-dressed and evidently very respectable white women, the only women who were killed in the wreck. Early in the day the Chinamen, who, it was supposed, would have to be buried at the country's expense, were for the most part identified by fellow-countrymen from New York.

One of the two women was identified this evening as Mary Lindsman of Utica, N. Y. She was identified by her husband, Robert Lindsman, a tailor, who said that his wife left home on Saturday night to go to Croton on a visit to her mother.

"That is so absurd that I hardly care to make any reply. We run the New York Central to make money. As its officials we ride over it almost daily in the same trains with the passengers. Now does it seem likely that we are knowingly risking our own lives? The only way we can make money out of the road is to make it safer than any other, and we spare no expense to do this. I have wired the State Railroad Commisand we spare no expense to do this. I have wired the State Railroad Commissioners asking them to come at once while the matter is fresh and make a thorough investigation. One of the commissioners was at the scene of the wreck Sunday, but I want to get all of them there."

Mr. Augustine was for-merly United States Consul at Blue-fields, Mosquito Territory, and is at present in charge of the navigation company's steamers on the San Juan River. sul at Managua, who, it is now claimed, informed the prisoner that he could do nothing for him, citing, it is alleged, the instance of two tramps from the United States, who had been arrested several months ago for cause, and who were shipped out of the country. However, about October 5 the fact of Mr. Augustine's imprisonment became known to United States Minister Baker, who wrote to President Zelaya on the subject, with the result that the prisoner was allowed to leave the penitentiary on parole, with orders not to leave the city of Managua.

The facts in the case seem to be that a government official of Nicaragua, several days previous to the arrest of Mr. Augustine, had forcibly taken possession of the steamers of the navigation company, and was running them to suit himself. On September 17 Mr. Augustine was ordered by a government official to direct the movement of the boats, apparently for the purpose of getting the company to feed and pay the men on board. This Augustine refused to do, unless the boats were turned over to the company, and he received orders from the latter to comply with the government's demand. The committee, however, reached the conclusion that it is to the interest of the security-holders to finance the rethe security-holders to finance the re-organization without further delay, and the committee will therefore oppose any adjournment of the sale, and, if necessary, will bid in for the full amount of the government's claim, involving the additional sum of $8,000,

One element asserts there is a surprise in store for the Reorganization Committee, and that it will come in the form of strong opposition when the time for bidding comes. It is said that the competition will come from the Russell Sage syndicate, which is believed to be really that of Huntington, who will get the road to run in connection with the Southern Pacific. It is further said that the bidding will probably be so spirited that the price brought will be much in excess of what is expected. It is declared that if the Sage people get the road they will probably build a new line to Chicago and thus control the situation from the city through to the Coast. It is further said that if the Vanderbiks fail to get the line it will mean the inevitable extension of the western line of the Northwestern, which now reaches far into Wyoming, through to the Coast. FLOUR CORNERED AT DAWSON SKAGUAY (Alaska,) Oct. 21.—There is a corner in flour at Dawson City and none can be had at any price. Thi is a corner in flour at Dawson City, and none can be had at any price. This is the statement made by Mr. Moore, one of a party of four who reached here last night, having come direct from Dawson City.

Moore, was accompanied by his son, Morris R. Moore, N. C. Woodring and G. F. Compton, all residents of Seattle. The party left Dawson on September 7. At that time not a pound of flour could be obtained. There was plenty of it in the town, however, the available supply being held for higher prices. Enterprising speculators with money had cornered the flour, and, while their warehouses were filled to overflowing, there was not an ounce for sale. Mr. Moore states that when he left Dawson threats were being made that the warehouses would be raided, and that the people would help themselves, paying, of course, a liberal price for what they took. The stores would not sell more than six cans of milk, three cans of meat and other articles in proportion, to any one person. Canned meats sold at 75 cents a can, milk at 50 cents, beans at 25 cents and sugar at 30 cents a pound.

Six steamers were daily expected to beans at 25 cents and sugar at 30 cents a pound.

Six steamers were daily expected to arrive from St. Michaels, and their arrival would end the flour corner and insure ample provisions for this winter. On their way up the river and lakes Mr. Moore and party met from five to twenty-five boats daily, going down to Dawson City. They only heard of one wreck en route, no lives being reported lost.

Dominion, Sulphur, Quartz and Mon tana creeks and branches of Indian River, a tributary of the Klondike and Mooseskin Creek. a tributary of the Yukon, a few miles below Dawson, which were discovered last summer, are all exceedingly rich, but do not rival El Dorado or Bonanza Creek.

ALASKAN BOUNDARY.

The Dispute to be Pressed to Early Settlement.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]
WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—It is believed here that in view of the great prominence Alaska has achieved, owing to the recent gold discoveries, and the importance of definitely fixing the boundary line between our territory and that of the Dominion of Canada, the Senate, when it reassembles in December, will take early action upon the treaty pending between Great Britain and the United States for the survey and marking of the 141st meridian. This treaty was sent to the Senate almost two years ago.

Senate almost two years ago.

The 141st meridian marks the eastern boundary of Alaska down to within ten marine leagues of the northern coast, where the line trends to the southeast, keeping that distance from the coast. Concerning the 141st meridian, there is, of course, no controversy between the United States and Great Britain, and no basis of settlement of the southeastern line has yet been reached by the two countries.

The original treaty, as sent to the Senate, it is understood, was amended or proposed to be amended by Senator Stewart, so as to include the settlement of the dispute relating to the southeastern line. If such an amendment were insisted upon by the Senate, as appears not unlikely, it is not at all certain that Great Britain will at present agree to the modification.

The work of adjusting the differences between the two countries regarding the southeastern line has not progressed for two years. In 1898 each government appointed a commissioner to survey the territory, though which to survey the territory through which this line runs, and each made topo-graphical maps of the country, which were submitted to the respective gov-ernments December 31, 1895. These were submitted to the respective gov-ernments December 31, 1895. These commissioners had no power to propose a settlement. Their work was con-fined strictly to furnishing information upon which subsequent negotiations could proceed. As no range of mouncould proceed. As no range of mountains runs along the coast, as was assumed to be the case when the boundary line between Russia and Canadawas fixed in terms, the alternative proposition of a line ten marine leagues from the coast must mark the limit of our territory. But in the determination many intricate questions are involved, whether the coast line shall be assumed to follow the sinustites of the shore or run from headland to headland, or whether the line shall be considered to run ten marine leagues from the outer shore of the islands, which form a sort of archipelago along the coast. The government officials who have studied the contest are confident that our title includes the islands and ten marine leagues of territory from the coast line, with all its sinusities. CAPT. CAPT. RAY'S REPORT.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The Way Department has just received a most interesting report from Capt. Ray as to the condition of affairs in the gold region, as he has found them from St. Michaels to Fort Yukon. The officer, who was sent especially for the purpose of making recommendations for the betterment of affairs there, has some radical suggestions to make. Among them, he urges the division of Alaska into two districts, the southern district to remain under present jurisdiction, while the northern district, including the gold region, is to be placed under a form of military government until Congress can make other provisions. The place selected by the captain for a military post is near Rapid City, about two hundred and fifty miles below Dawson. WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.-The Was

VICTORIA (B. C.,) Oct. 25.—The steamer City of Seattle arrived this morning from the north with one hundred passengers, including Cliff L. Moore and son and M. C. McManus and Peter Wyvelle of San Francisco. A storm sprang up, and in taking sail McManus fell overboard. Wyvelle jumped in to reacue his companion and was dragged to the bottom by him. Joe Proching, another member of the party, returned to camp and reported the drowning.

Moore and Woodring scout the idea of starvation at Dawson, and say that the talk of an epidemic disease is all imagination. Stores stopped selling provisions because they do not want outsiders to get a corner on goods.

Moore saw a wrecked boat on the river, but could not ascertain the whereabouts of the occupants.

Mr. Sifton, Minister of the Interior, made a trip to Lake Tagish over the Dyea trail and will return via Skaguay. Maj. Walsh's party lost ten to twentyfive horses and numbers of oxen in trying to get their outfits over the Skaguay trail.

She arrived in port late tonight. She brought the curious bit of news that Harry Holmes, boat-steerer of the Navarch, who survived the terrible exposure on the ice floe, succumbed to injuries received on the Thrasher. In some way the cutting gear snapped, and the falling chain struck Holmes across the back, subjecting him to se-vere internal injuries. He survived the olow for two weeks, and seemed in a fair way to recover, when a sudden turn in his condition ended in death. The Thrasher had bad luck, as on September 9 she snapped the shaft of propeller, and had to return with only four whales.

Princeton Professors Censured for Aiding in Liquor Traffic. [ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

OAKLAND, Oct. 25 .- At today's ser sion of the Presbyterian Synod of California the resolution reported by the Committee on Temperance last Friday rebuking Princeton University for permitting the maintenance of Princeton Inn, with a liquor license, was the sub-ject of three hours' debate. The report was read by Rev. J. L. Hopkins, who was read by Rev. J. L. Hopkins, who spoke strongly in its favor. Its adoption was opposed by Rev. John Hemphill, who characterized it as being an ill-tempered attack on Princeton. It was developed during the debate, which became exceedingly animated, that only two professors at Princeton were responsible for the establishment of the inn, and that the rest of the faculty was blameless in the matter. Accordingly, Rev. P. E. Kipp was instructed to bring in a substitute resolution, which was adopted by the synod. This resolution, as adopted, places the blame upon the two professors, whose names are not given, but does not hold the faculty or the university responsible for the matter complained of.

To Remove Piles.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 25.—Acting under an order by Judge Hebbard, made this morning, modifying the injunction granted by Judge Slack, the Harbor Commissioners ordered the immediate removal of the piles on the Devisadero-street water front, which have caused such bitter strife in and out of the courts between the Fair estate and the Facific Gas Company. The tug Gov. Markham, with a pile-driver in tow, was dispatched to the spot, but low water intervened to prevent the contractors from showing the value of their threats of armed resistance. After the threatened outbreak of hostilities had subsided, Judge Hebbard set aside his first order and fixed the entire injunction proceedings for hearing tomorrow morning. It is believed the settlement of the controversy will now be left to the courts.

Fatalities occur because medical attention is not called in, and the masses for the time being are in a revolutionary mood because of the enforcement of the system of house quarantine and are resorting to every means in their power to put obstacles in the way of the constituted authorities. It is generally agreed that the house quarantine is not accomplishing the results expected. When the fever first broke out efficient guards were placed about the buildings in the hope that the foci might be restricted, but today there is no quarter of the city that has not reported cases, and the germs are being spread by reason of the fact that inmates of infected houses have been successful by means of rear exits, in excluding the vigilance

Your head feels abnormally large, somewhat like that of a person troubled with vertigo. A heavy weight seems to be bearing down upon your head. The pulse is high, and a feeling of exhilaration takes possession of you. You feel as if you were treading the air, with everything around you a blank. You are alone—the only being, the only object, the only tangible thing in the universe. You gradually sink into insensibility A fierce shock suddenly passes through your entire system. An electrician who has been experi-zles your eyes, and then all is a blank This second shock is caused by the turning off of the current. The experience thus detailed was the result of a comparatively weak current, which was gradually and cautiously turned on. It is safe to say that in cases of execution by electricity, the victim experiences none of these sensations. In nine case out of ten, he is killed instantaneously. To be exact, it takes 1-235th part of a second to kill a man in the electric chair.

Cure of Blindness by the X-Ray. American X-ray experts are awaiting co firmation of a remarkable cure of blindness which F. de P. Astudillo, a Cuban physician, claims to have made by means of the Roentgen rays. His patient was a young man who had been blind for twelve years from a failing of the retina, which all the oculists pronounced incurable. Placing him before the focus tube of an X-ray set, Dr. Astudillo landed him a fluoroscope. The man started and gave a loud exclamation, for he saw not only the light, but fingers a ring, and other objects placed before the screen. When the fluoroscope was taken away and the rays of the tube were directed toward the eyes, the patient said he could see a shoe and a rosary that were held near him. The next day he saw the light of day for a few minutes without the rays, but his eyes soon became dark again. The administration of the rays was continued day by day, and the young man by gradual stages, began to read inscriptions, to decipher the features of a child in a photograph, and to detect the gradations of lightfrom incandescent lamps in the laboratory. Before long the ability to see without the rays became more pronounced, and the man recognized, unassisted, a tube of crystal, a rod of maliogany and a lamp coved with a green shade placed near him. At first the sight of the right eye alone was thus strengthened but after a while the left eye was specially submitted to the X-rays, with a similar law provement. It is stated that, according to the diagnosis of the best oculists in Cuba, here rays were undertaken, the retina of the left eye of the young man was almost separated, and the lisolation of the retina of the right eye was complete. firmation of a remarkable cure of blindness which F. de P. Astudiilo, a Cuban physic:an Electric Triplet Bicycle. A rival of the electric tandem bicycle for pace-making honors has appeared in an electric triplet bicycle, which has just been completed in Paris. The construction of this motor-triplet is almost identical with that of the ordinary triplet, except that some parts are specially strengthened. The storage batteries are placed in the frame in such a manner as not to interfere with the propulsion of the machine by three riders in the ordinary way. In a test en one of the racing tracks in Paris it is said that two riders belonging to a pacing team, and an electrician, who had charge of the accumulators, covered the distance of ten miles in 16 minutes 93-5 seconds. As this is considerably faster than any speed hitherto rattained by cycle riders, some sensational records are looked for from the new triplet during the present year, both in the matter of its own speed and its influence on pacing.

One of the first instruments to be shipped to the Klondike is Prof. Elihu Thomson's X to the Klondike is Prof. Elihu Thomson's X-ray jewel tester, which will be used by miners to test their ores. Many people have a lingering hope that in the new gold region a diamond mine may come to light, and in case of such a glittering find the assayers would be greatly helped by the classifying which the jewel tester would render possible, and even non-professionals could apply this test. This instrument can be applied to any ore or mineral find.

[Rockport (Tex.,)New Era:] The Min-ing Number of the Los Angeles Times has been received. It is an interesting and valuable paper.

At Bakersfield Sunday night the carelessness of a switchman in the Southern Pacific yards caused the death of one man and the serious injury of two others, one of whom will die. He threw the wrong switch, and sent a Southern Pacific pay car crashing into the yard engine, which was standing still on a siding. Engineer Frank Orr, Fireman Lemasters, and William Hitchocok, a blacksmith in the shops, were standing on the tailboard of the engine and were pinned between he platform of the car and the locomotive. Both of Lemasters's legs were broken, and he died an hour after the disaster. Hitchocok's back was broken, and his death is certain. The damage to the pay car and engine was slight.

their residence on Loma. Drive, in honor of Mrs. John I. Sabin and Miss Sabin of San Francisco, and Miss Florence Gardner of San Diego. The other guests were Mrs. Winifred Hunt and Miss Mabel Corey. The table was prettily decorated with pink roses and asparagus ferns.

A delightful series of eight "Afternoons with Celebrated Masters of Painting and Nineteenth Century Art," has been arranged by the Ruskin Art Club. The talks will be given by Mrs. George A. Caswell, and will be illustrated by superb stereopticon views. The first will be held next Saturday at 2:30 oclock at the Mariborough School on West Twenty-third street, and will include sixty illustrations. The afternoons will be given monthly.

Miss Addie L. Murphy gave a de-lightful complimentary entertainment last evening, at the Young Women's Christian Association. The programme included readings by Miss Murphy, an exhibition by Miss Lida Scott, a violin solo by Miss Mullins, a piano solo by Mrs. J. S. Vosburg and a song by Mrs. James Burdette.

NOTES AND PERSONALS. Mr. and Mrs. John D. Foster of West congratulations on the advent of a lit-tle daughter in their family yesterday. Bishop and Mrs. Johnson, who re-turned last week from an extended European trip, were given a reception last evening by the Woman's Guild at St. Paul's Hall. The decorations were especially effective. Music was fur-nished during the evening by Ahrend's orchestra.

nished during the evening by Ahrend's orchestra. The current events section will report at the regular business meeting of the Ebell Thursday afternoon. The topics for discussion will be "The Live Issue—Annexation of Hawaii," and the book of the hour, "Quo Vadis." Papers will be read by Mrs. J. J. Byrne, Mrs. R. W. Burnham and Miss Bertha Kerckhoff.

A man who has long been the victim of sleeplessness, and at last cured himself, tells how the remedy was effected. He was very fond of smoking, and was accustomed to smoke freely after dinner. Naturally, the last thing before going to bed would be a smoke, which put him in a tranquil state of mind and nerves. This tranquility, however, proved delusive. He would either lie awake for a long time or go to sleep immediately, and wake up in half an hour and stay awake. Suspecting that the excessive use of tobacco might be responsible for these symptoms, he moderated his smoking, and with most happy results. He now has his smoke after dinner, and then indulges no more. The temptation to do so is sometimes very great, but he counts the luxury of a full night's rest, with the enhanced power for work next day, more desirable than the extra pipe or two, and he goes without the tobacco, and sleeps soundly when he retires. Smoking after eating has less effect on the nerves than at other times, and the subsequent period of abstinence from the weed before going to bed gives the nerves a chance to regain their normal composure.

Perpetual Motion Solved.

[Farmers' Review:] Here is a sort of perpetual-motion affair. A firm of moneyed men in Kansas have bought a piece of land and will stock it with 1000 black cats and 5000 rats. It is estimated that the cats will increase to 15,000 in a year or two, and black cat skins are worth $1. The rats will multiply five times as fast as the cats, and the rats will be caught, skinned and the hides sold to kid glove manufacturers. While their carcasses will feed the cats, on the other hand the carcasses of the skinned cats will be fed to the rats. This is one of the best self-supporting schemes we ever heard of, and there is a gold mine in it. The cats will be allowed to increase until the 190,000 limit is reached, when the income will be enormous, as no feed at all will be necessary after the first year.

A childless woman has missed the greatest pleasure in the universe. She has missed the vague, soft caresses of helpless, sweet little hands that cling to her with blind love and dependence. She has missed the miracle of motherhood. She is not truly a woman. If she is to be a mother, she must be healthily capable. A weak, sickly woman is not to be expected to bear a healthy child. Bearing an unhealthy child is a crime—punishable by Nature's inflexible laws. Punishable by Nature's inflexible laws. Punishable with misery and reatorse. The wonder is that there should be unhealthy women and unhealthy children.—It is the fault of the women. Their ill health is unuscessary. They may be perfect women, and bear perfect children—easily and without pain, if they choose to do so.

Dr. Pierce's Pavorite Prescription makes women well. It purifies and invigorates the organs distinctly feminine, and makes the mother better able to nourish the child before and after birth. It frees the ordeal of childbirth from much of its pain and danger. It insures the health of both mother and child. It prevents premature birth and miscarriages. All good druggists sell it.

Mrs. Beulah Woodall, of Bateman, Patrick Co., Va., writes: "I was afflicted for four years with disease of the womb, but would not confess it for a time. My mother told me she had read of Dr. Pierce's medicines and advised me to try them. I got two bottles of the 'Prescription' again, six of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and five bottles of the 'Prescription' again, six of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and five bottles of 'Pelesk', and beran taking them in May. I would take a dose of each three times a day and a peliet at night. I can affely say they cared me. I can praise Dr. Fierce and his medicines. Have been married ten years.

"The trains and other public conveyances leaving in the evening were crowded with troops and volunteers, not, however, going in search of the enemy, but detailed to occupy the strategio points during the night. The general postoffice building was constantly guarded by regulars. The very day he arrived, he says, he could not announce having assumed command to his subordinates in the interior for the reason that the telegraph wires had been cut and railroad traffic interrupted. All the railroads had been damaged by dynamite and depots demolished by the insurgents in their rapid flight across the island.

"One of the principal papers, Diario de La Marina, had sounded the alarm by stating that the insurgents were knocking with the handles of their machetes at the gates of Havana. All of the interior cities were paying tribute to the rebels, and plantations not destroyed by rebel torches during the early raids were only protected by the contributions of their owners.

"Gen. Weyler's chief aim was to separate the forces of Gomez and Macco, for which purpose he constructed the military trocha of Marie-Majara, resulting in penning Macco in Pinar del Rio and Gomez in the eastern province. Today the insurgents along the line of the trocha from San Fernando to Cape San Antonio are in groups of not more than two hundred armed men.

"The weak resistance offered to the insurgents' attacks on Puerto Principe, Holguin, Manzanillo and Santiago de Cuba he ascribes to the insufficiency of their garrisons, which also led to the lamentable capture by the enemy of Guaimaro, Prinipe, Lunas and Holguin.

lamentable capture by the enemy of Guaimare, Prinipe, Lunas and Holguin.

"Gen. Weyler paints a pen picture of the conditions existing today, stating that from Pinar del Rio to the Jucaro trocha there are only a few small bands of roving insurgents, and they are unable much longer to continue the strife of arms. Farmers are ready and anxious to resume cultivation of their crops, while the tobacco already planted gives promise of a yield beyond all the local demands. Therefore, he asks the home government to issue a royal decree favorable to its exportation.

In conclusion, Gen. Weyler refers to the excellent sanitary condition of the Spanish troops, of factories and hospitals, which he has caused to be erected throughout the island, to the economic and honest administration of every department of the government, and to the extensive preparations made during the rainy season for an active and aggressive campaign."

The effects of junkmen's bells, venders' cries, the blowing of pediers' horns, the explosion of torpedoes and pistols by small boys, and other discordant sounds, are injurious not only to the temper of a community, but to its health. The actual waste of tissue and strength due to these causes would foot up many millions of dollars annually, yet they seem to be accepted, like scores of other nuisances and burdens under which the race groans, as necessary evils due to the multiplied activities of our modern life.

the multiplied activities of our modern life.

Iffe.

Some noises are useful; others simply pernicious. Of the latter, the horse and the rough pavements provided for him are a most prolific source. The impact of horses' hoofs, and the clash and clang of iron tires, make up a large part of the distressing noises of a great city. Smooth pavements and motor vehicles will in time reduce this class of street noises to a minimum. In the mean time, a sign that a determined movement is on foot to lessen the bedlam of cities is the organization of a society for the prevention of noise, which has aiready started its crusade in New York. Street noises generally are to be suppressed, and hand-organs are not to be played before 9 o'clock in the morning, nor after 7 o'clock in the everling, and not at all on Sunday. An ordinance to which the police will pay particular attention relates to dogs, cats, chickens, geese and other disturbers of the peace of neighbors. The inforcement of this section of the law will bring joy to thousands who live in apartments. Among the thousands of families who are known as flat-dwellers, there are few not pessessed of neighbors whose pet dcg, or cat, or parrot, makes both night and day hideous. Resolute treatment of such needless noise-makers will save the lives of many unhappy persons who are confined to sick beds, and will relieve midsummer life in town of some of its greatest miseries.

An indication of the general sympathy with the movement in New York is seen in the fact that the morning after one of the dailies exhorted the police to take specially in hand the reduction of unnecessary cats in many districts, eight dead cats were laid side by side on the curb in an uptown street. They had evidently been killed by poison or suffocation. In strong winds the hillside is often left horizontally, or even on an ascending line, but when clear of the rising current of air near the hill, an operator can, with a little practice, make the direction and speed until the ground is reached almost what he will. By shifting his weight forward, he causes the machine to descend where—he feels himself gaining velocity at a tremendous rate. When within ten or twelve feet of the ground, he moves easily back to his original position, and the machine returns to a level keel and skims along with gradually-diminishing speed for sixty to one hundred yards, while the operator's feet dangle but a few inches above the grass. A. M. Herring, who has taken up the work where the unfortunate Lillienthal left it, says it is not by any means easy to learn to handle a gliding machine. It is much more difficult than learning the bicycle, yet when the trick is once mastered, it is doubtful whether a bicycle can be handled with any greater ease. Mr. Herring thinks that in less than five years we shall see the first one-man machine which can travel sixty miles an hour and cover 500 miles without stop.

RESURFACE SPRING STREET. Every smart shower of rain shows with glaring distinctness what Spring street is going to be when the rainy season really sets in, and that is that people will scarcely dare to drive upon it The disgraceful condition of this, the main business thoroughfare of the city, is only second to the disgraceful apologies that are being made for it by property-owners and their shouters, who seem to think that to tell the truth about a city is what hurts it, and not the conditions that are exposed by a newspaper. If Los Angeles is injured

The people of other States might object to being shut out of the California market and might tacitly resolve to boycott California fruit, wine and other products which that State disposes of to the amount of $125,000,000 yearly.

"The Californians will probably see this objection before they take the action proposed by the local disciples of Dingley. Otherwise the experiment of protection and prosperity along the right, as well as the duty, of this newspaper to endeavor to show in its own way the conditions that exist on our main thoroughfares, and this it will continue to do until an improvement is made. To talk about not resurfacing Spring street until numerous other improvements are made is simply clotted nonsense. By that time the street will resemble the district about the old

Plaza, and landlords will not be getting rent enough for their stores to pay taxes and insurance. The expense of this temporary resurfacing will be but a bagatelle in comparison with its benefits, and why any man who has property on the street should stand in way of the proposed improvement passeth all understanding. good deal of fun has been poked at the Philadelphia Board of Education, because of the recent ruling of the to the effect that Victor Hugo's great novel, "Les Misérables," should not be used as a text-book for the study of French in the Girls' High School class. It is true that most of the criticisms passed by the press upon this rolling have been in the nature of "squibs," or mere flippant comment, but in some instances attempts at serious criticism have been made. As regards the latter, they appear to have been based upon misapprehension.

There is no denying that Victor Hugo's greatest work of fiction is a masterpiece of literary excellence; not on the high socral purpose of the work, considered as a whole, he successfully assailed. But it must be said, and in truth, that it is a work which can be understood and an preciated only by men and women of potency and purpose. But from the very nature of the book, it might prove to young persons of either sex, whose minds are immature and whose characters are unformed. It appears, as a matter of fact, that the action of the Philadelphia Board of Education does not in any wise con-template the exclusion of the book from general public reading, nor does attempt to say, even, that young orided their parents have no objec-It simply declares that in the to 17 years, in the Philadelphia High theol, "Lee Minirables" is not to be

What would have been thought of a paladin of old, who went to the rescue of imprisoned innocence, had he gone through the highways of the land recounting his decis and spreading upon the deadwalls three-sheet posters de-acriptive of all the details of his achievement? What would we think of deadly peril, were he to go up and down the street, shouting. "I am the chap who saved Bill Smith from a few years, there would now be no cases to these queries is needed-they give their own answers. What is reprehensible in a man is reprehensible in a ewspaper: what is objectionable in as individual is objectionable in a public journal; what is cont in one is cant in other, and that is why yellow jour nalism is decried, and not because of any sentiment of envy or jealousy on the part of its contemporaries. The great, solid, right-thinking and rightdoing newspaper does great things be-cause they need to be done, and when one makes no fues about it. If the is a great event to cover, and the news paper covers it ably and brilliantly, as the credit duly carned; but the public does not want to be told over and over again what an enterprising paper it is reading, for that is exactly what the public pays for. Yellow journalism is a thing of very recent growth, which came in along with the erotic novel and the malacious roof-garden show. Let us hope that it will pass as quickly as will the earthly novel and the "Little Egypt" class of entertainment, and that eventually there may arize a new race of Greeleys and stennetts and Danas to take the place of the Hearsts and McLesus and Pulitzers, who are doing so much to demoralize public taute and to debauch and demean the honorable craft of the Pourth Estate.

VOCAL THERAPEUTICS. Beneficial Effects of Singing, Cry-

Dr. Harry Campbell has collected some entertaining and valuable facts one entertaining and valuable facts concerning the physiology of the emotions. The acts of talking, shouting, singing, laughing, crying, sighing and yawning are more far-reaching in their effects than would at first sight appear. Besides modifying the respiratory movements, they induce definite paychic phenomena, which themselves have their physical accompaniments. The lasting quality of many Italian voices has been attributed to the practice which obtains in many of the country districts of Italy of leaving the infant in a basket, while the mother attends to her household duties, and letting it cry'itself quiet. Dr. Campbell says that if the instinct to shout and sing and laugh and cry, which is especially noticeable in the child, is unduly repressed, the child is sure to suffer. Crying should certainly be restrained within limits, but there can be no doubt that it is primarily physiological, note only favoring the proper expansion of the lungs, and accelerating the circulation, but deadening the effects of pain and relieving nerve tension (especially in a woman.) Ronbach thinks it not improbable that many evils which manifest themselves in later life, such as chlorosis, contracted chess and the phthisical habit, "may take their origin in the practice of mothers to stop their infants from screaming by soothing them to sleep in their arms, or by stupefying rocking in the cradic."

As regards the psychic aspect of talking, music or artistic production, than if it remained unexpressed. The actual amount of work done in talking is far more than might at first sight be supposed, and should always be taken into account in reckoning up the quantity of exercise taken during the day. The amount of talking is far more than might at first sight be supposed, and should always be taken into account in reckoning up the day. Oertel speaks enthusiastically of the beneficial effects of singing on the general health, and particularly on the lungs, and he refers to the fact that almost all eminent singing masters can tell of serious cases of lung disease which have been cured by vocal methods. He thinks there is no question that weak chests of various kinds can the reality improved by it, and he would even aspear to include pathisis. Singing, like shouting, which also favore the development of the tunes and accelerates the circulation of blood and lymph, is more emotional than intellectual, the degree of emotion called forth depending upon the extent to which the individual throws hunself into the spirit of the song. The physical correlatives vary, of course, with the emotion conveyed; if the theme of the song be joyous, the proper candering of it is highly stimulating, in fact there is no question that from the medical point of view, singing is a most important exercise, to a great extent by virtue of this influence on the emotions, but also from its effects on the respiratory movements, and on the development of the lungs.

LOS ANGELES THEATER. MISS Ellen Beach Yaw's farewell concert at the Los Angeles Theater last evening was a fitting and triumphant close to the lovely singer's present career in this part of the world, and the splen-did house that greeted her was a liv-ing testimonial to the love and ad-miration with which the hearts of her home people are filled for her. Miss Yaw's every appearance was the signal for an outburst of enthusiastic ap-plause, and recalls and not-to-be-de-nied encores followed each number. home people are filled for pr. Alms Yaw's every appearance was the signal for an outburst of enthusiastic applause, and recalls and not-to-be-denied encores followed each number. "Lark Ellen" was in especially good voice, and her wonderful roulades, her crystalline, bird-like trills and her marvelous high notes were all there to thrill and delight her hearers. And like a flower, in her dainty attire, her loveliness and grace charmed the eye as her beautiful tones the ear. The "Russian Nightingale" (Alabieff.) her first number, proved the wonderful range of Miss Yaw's voice and the richness of her lower tones, while the grand aria from Mosart's "Magic Flute" showed to advantage her rare brilliancy of execution. In response to the prolonged applause, a dainty baliad. "When Love is Kind." was given. Celli's "L'Echo." with flute obligato, by W. H. Mead, was sung with exquisite purity of tone, and in response to the succeeding encore Miss Yaw gave a charming rendering of "Thou Brilliant Bird" (David.) The house refused to be contented after all this rippling sweetness of tone, and called the singer back again and again, until she responded gractously with "The Old Kentucky Home." filling the old familiar measures with tenderest feeling and sweetest tone. At her next appearance, Miss Yaw sang a group of three numbers, "Dors" (manuscript.) by a Swedish composer: "Laulaby" (Wagner.) and "I Love Thee" (Grieg.) responding to the rounds of applause with the famous French "Laughing Song." Miss Yaw closed the programme with a brilliant rendering of the grand aria from "Star of the North" (Meyerbeer.) as originally scored, with obligato for two flutes.

Mrs. T. Masse was cordially received, and contributed three planosolos to the programme, Mosakowski's "Toceata" and "Craccovieume" (Paderewski.) Miss Elisworth and Messrs. McQuillen Mead, accompanied by Theodore Martens at the piano, cendered a flut duo, the Fantasie from "Remiramide." Miss Eva Ellisworth proved herself a sympathetic and artistic accompaniete, and assisted la DUBBANK THEATER. The Broadway Theater Company gave the initial presentation of "Held by the Enemy" at the Burbank last night, and, barving a few minor breaks, that may be attributed to a first performance, gave tilllette's stirring and interesting wardrama a must praiseworthy exploitation.

"Held by the Enemy" was the first of William tillette's plays to give him wide fame as a dramatist, it having been one of the greatest successes, in its day, of the American stage. The lapse of years has not leasened its fitterest nor taken any of the thrill out of its stirring and dramate situations: indeed, in the latter quality there are few plays more strongly drawn, particularly the scene of the court-martial in act two, when the Confederate spy, exther than have suspicion thrown upon the innocent Col. But, after all, his feat is new, and that commends it to the majority of those who hear it. A French ballet company concludes the performance with a spectacular pantomime, the significance of which is obscure. The dancing is quite good, but the little children introduced in the act add nothing to it, and might better be in bed.

ATTRACTION TONIGHT. The Italian Grand Opera Company begins its return engagement at the Los Angeles Theater this evening, and another week of opera is promised, which will be, if anything, superior to their last repertoire. Tonight Gounod's "Faust." Wedneeday evening, "La Bohéme." presented by request, as is also Donisetti's "Lucia" on Thursday evening; "La Tavorita" Priday evening; "La Traviata" Saturday matinée, closing with Verdi's "Il Trovatore" Saturday evening. The cast for tonight numbers many of the clever artists of whom all have aiready made many friends in this city by their excellent work. Collens, the magnificent tenor, will be heard in the title role, Victorio Girardi as Mephistopheles, Sig. Francesconi as Valentine, and Veneziani, as Wagner. Of the ladies, Señorita Linda Montanari will sing the role of the fair Marguerite, Señorita Beatris Franco, as Siebel, and Señorita Bentris Franco, as Siebel, and Señorita Bentris Franco, as Siebel, and señorita Diympia Calcagni as Marta. This is a splendid cast, and guarantees an excellent production of this famous opera. The opera is in five acts, and is founded upon Goethe's tragedy of the same name, following the text very closely, and is confined to the first part.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Routine Business Disposed of at the Regular Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Board of Education was held last night. The report of Superintendent Poshay, which was read and filed, contained this paryear closed October 22, with an enrollment of 16,351, or 1148 greater than the corresponding month of last year, and 1473 greater than the last month of last corresponding month of last year, and 1472 greater than the last month of last year. Our rapidly-growing city is shown in these gains, and the requirements for additional achool accommodation is emphasized. It is a difficult matter to care for 600 pupils in buildings intended to accommodate 325. The half-day seasions cause the taxpayers, whose children should have a full day's tuition, to find fault with the school department, and the reduction of the teacher's salary from the full day to that for the half-day school is not received with favor by the teacher. We have found it necessary to open thirteen half-day schools in the primary grades, and five afternoon assions for the kindergarten department.

The Finance Committee presented approved bills for 8335.32 from the county fund, and $1224.21 from the city fund, for which warrants were drawn.

The following teachers were elected on the substitute list for the grammar and primary grades: W. S. Hall, N. C. Bledsoe, Miss Helen L. Hayes and Miss Ida E. Reuch.

Eithel Goddes and Mary G. Fialker, having failed to furnish grammargrade certificates, were granted leave of absence, not to exceed four months, in which to obtain certificates.

Proposed changes in the rules affecting special teachers and relating to the duties of the superintendent were referred to the Committee on Rules.

The purchase of a wagon for the use of the building superintendent to cont not more than $100, was authorized. The application of Janitor Morris of the High School for an increase of salary was referred to the High School Committee.

FOUND A FATHER.

LITTLE LEONARD BONTWELL LO-CATED BY HIS PARENT.

is Found to be the Son of a Wealthy Veterinary Surgeon, Who Claims Him from Officer

Little Leonard Bontwell, the elevenyear-old waif who was picked up or the street two years ago by an officer after being discarded by his sister, Mrs. Perry Koefed, and has since been taken care of by Police Officer Fay, has been found by his father after a separation of five years. Like the story in the fairy book, his father, George Bont-well, has become rich and little Leonard will hereafter want for nothing. Leonard's story is a peculiar one. He was born in Kansas. In company with his parents, who were well-to-do, old, and his father, George Bontw came to Los Angeles when yet a baby. His mother died when he was 6 years oid, and his father. George Bontwell, a veterinary surgeon, moved back to Wichita, Kan., with little Leonard. Shortly afterward his father lost his money and, placing Leonard with friends, left for Kansas City. There he was taken sick. While sick an older eister brought Leonard to Los Angeles. The lad's father afterward sought the little fellow, but was unable to locate him. He advertised in the eastern newspapers continually, but without success, until two weeks ago, when he learned that his son was here in Los Angeles. He immediately came West, and Saturday located his son, who will return to Kansas with his father thisweek.

Meanwhile Leonard's lot had not been an easy one. His sister, Mrs. Koefed, refused to care for the lad, and he was turned adrift. An officer picked him up one night nearly two years ago, wandering about on the streets. He told his story, and Officer Fay, who has children of his own, took a fancy to the lad, who proved exceptionally bright. The lad's story was investigated and found to be true. His sister, Mrs. Koefed, who is well off in this world's goods, when seen by Officer Fay, not only refused to do anything for little Leonard, but politely requested Fay to leave. Fay took the lad home, clothed and fed him and kept him for six months, in return for which Leonard did chores about the house. Then Mrs. Fay became dissatisfied with the lad, and another home was found for him. He did chores for Mrs. Taylor of Santa Paula for two months, and then returned to Fay. Three weeks he remained with a Mr. Conkling of Covina, but the expiration of that time found him again with Fay, and with Fay ha then remained until the arrival of his father.

Mr. Bontwell has made a fortune to Texas fever, a dread cattle disease. He was very indigmant, when seen last night, over the action of his daughter in reference to Leonard, and spoke lovingly of the boy. Leonard was rejoiced at the bright prospects afforded him in

F. R. Nicholson of Santa Ana was arrested last night by Detective Stadish and locked up on a charge of passing worthless checks. Last week Nicholson, who is an old acquaintance of Jerry Hitich, the restaurateur, entered-the latter's place on Third street and desired cash for a $10 check on a Santa Ana lank. He was accommodated. The following day he reappoared, this time having raised the amount to $20, and again his check was taken for each. Saturday the checks were returned, marked "no funds," and when Nicholson sauntered in youterday afternoon and nonchalantly asked for a nother accommodation of $20 for a similar check, he was detained until an officer arrived. Clifton E. Mayne, who was convicted of rape upon the person of Elsie Shipton two years ago, and who has been held in the County Jail pending an ap-peal to the Supreme Court, was discharged from custody yesterday upon motion of Deputy District Attorney McComas, who explained that, owing to a lack of evidence, the new trial or-dered by the Supreme Court would not be justified. Many of the main witnesses for the prosecution at the trial had confessed to having testified falsely, and Elsie Shipton, upon whom the assault was alleged to have been committed, could not be found. Judge Smith granted the motion, and a few minutes later Mayne passed out of the County Jail a free man.

bates Are Denied-The Ment Inspector Thinks it Wise to Re-sign-The Lighting Bid is Re-

Yesterday's session of the City Coun-cil gave every promise beforehand of being a sensational one. There were half a dozen matters to come up, ev-ery one of them about as dangerous to bandle as a stick of dynamite. But these dangerous matters were handled with gloves, and no explosion occurred, though more than once it seemed imminent. The proceedings were marked by several surprises, and among them was the awarding of the streetsprinkling contract to Capt. A. P. Cross. The lighting contract afforded another surprise, for, contrary to exanother surprise, nor, contrary to expectation, the Gaz and Light Committee recommended that the clerk be instructed to readvertise. This report was adopted. The bitching ordinance went over for another week, although a strong effort was made to induce the Council to act at once.

The Meat and Milk Inspector presented his resignation, which was ananimously accepted. The matter of but some vigorous logrolling has been Still another matter which was expected to cause trouble was clash of sioners and the boiler department. No the board of examining engineers relating that, in accordance with a request from Grider, he returned unsigned the ordinance for improving a part of Thirty-second street. The vote by which the ordinance was passed was then reconsidered. The report of the City Clerk was read, and he was instructed to advertise for bids for supplying bread and meat for the City Jail.

NOT ALTOGETHER VOLUNTARY. A communication was read from George K. Dodson, tendering his resignation as Meat and Milk Inspector, to take effect on November I, or sooner, if the Council should so desire, Dodson stated that his reason for resigning was that "the salary is too small for the work that has to be done." While this proposition may be true, it to an hardly be alleged that the salary is too small for the work that has been done by Dodson. He has been forcely charged with neglect of his duties, and he was recently informed by one of the Councilmen that if his resignation was not forthcoming at once he would be summarily discharged. With this incentive, Dodson resigned.

His resignation evidently met with the entire approval of the Council, the only debate being as to whether it should take effect at once or on November I. It was finally decided to allow Dodson one more week of official life.

STREET-SPRINKLING CONTRACT AWARDED.

The report of the Board of Public Works, prepared and published last week, prepared and published last week, received an important addition yesterday morning before the Council met. A paragraph was added recom-mending the acceptance of the proposal of Capt. A. P. Cross to sprinkle the streets for an annual consideration of $49.600.

When this recommendation was read before the Council, it was at once ap-parent that a cut-and-dried pro-gramme had been prepared, and that parent that a cut-and-dried programme had been prepared, and that one of the most important contracts which the city has at its disposal was to be awarded without even the pretense of an investigation. Blanchard moved the adoption of the recommendation, and Mathuss promptly seconded the motion. Without a word of debate or a dissenting vote, the motion was carried, and the contract had been let. For days it has been the common talk of the City Hall that the bid made in the name of John R. Pirtle was in reality put in by Cross. This bid was lower than the Cross bid by nearly $2000 per annum, but it was cunningly framed so as to contain an apparent variance from the specifications. When it was found that there was no third bid which could be considered, this seeming variance was seized upon as a pretext for rejecting the Pirtle bid. Cross then had a clear field forhis higher bid. With the kindly assistance of a majority of the Councilmen, this scheme to milk the city was successfully carried through.

to mik the city was successfully car-ried through.

There can be no question that a sub-stantial saving might have been ef-fected on this contract had the Counci seen fit to protect the city's interests.

THE HITCHING ORDINANCE. The lobby was thronged with hack men and expressmen, who were waiting for the report of the Board of Pub lic Works upon the hitching ordinance Several representatives of the Mer-chants' and Manufacturers' Association were also present. Inasmuch as Blanch ard, the chairman of the board, had announced last Friday that a report would certainly be presented on Monday, there was obvious disappointmen when he arose and said that the matter when he arose and said that the matter must be postponed another week. Mathuss, who is also a member of the board, was instantly on his feet. He said warmly, "I want it understood that I am ready to report on the question now. We promised to have a report today, and there is no sense in having it delayed a week."

At Toll's suggestion, it was finally agreed that the matter should be deferred until the afternoon session. LIGHTING CONTRACT TO BE RE-

ADVERTISED. Some surprise was occasioned when the Gas and Light Committee pre-

the Gas and Light Committee presented the following report:

"Your Gas and Light Committee, to whom was referred the bid of the Los Angeles Electric Company to light the streets of the city of Los Angeles for a period of one year from January 1, 1898, recommend that said bid be rejected, and the City Clerk instructed to return their certified check.

"We recommend that the specifications under which this bid was called be referred to the Gas and Light Committee."

on Saturday it was given out that Grider and Blanchard, composing a majority of the committee, had decided to recommend that the bid of the electric company be acepted. Baker refused to join in such a report, how-ever, and his colleagues finally yielded to his views.

The recommendation of the committee was at once adopted by the Council. It is understood that the number of new lights will be reduced in the new specifications that are to be framed. As yet no definite agreement has been reached, although a heated discussion on the subject occurred in the committee-room during the noon intermission.

The City Attorney presented an or-dinance for opening an alley from Sixth to Seventh street, between Sixth to Seventh street, between Spring and Broadway, which was passed.

The City Attorney also reported as follows:

"In the matter of the communication of the Street Superintendent regarding the necessity for certain repairs and culverts along the line of the tracks of certain street-railway companies. I would advise that the Street Superintendent be directed to examine the franchises of these companies and enforce the provisions by giving the notice therein required, and in case they fail to comply with the notice, to make the necessary repairs and turn the bills over to me for collection from the companies. I think this will accomplish the desired result."

It was so ordered.

In reference to the suit to restrain the Southern Pacific from laying double track on Alameda street, resently decided in favor of the railroad, the City Attorney was instructed to assist in the appeal of the case, but to incur no expense in so doing.

Mayne had criminal relations with me, although it was false. Elsie told me she had made the affidavit charging her with having criminal relations with him because she was threatened by Mrs. Mayne and Mrs. Wright, who told her she would be put on the street without a place to go and would be an outcast. In fact, on the 20th and 20th of March, 1895, I know C. E. Mayne was not in Los Angeles. I remember the dates and facts distinctly, because I and Elsie were worzying all the time for fear he would get worse at San Diego, and not be able to return for some time. He was gone several days, and, therefore, could not have been at Wright's house on the nights of 29th and 30th of March. "His conduct toward us was that

"After the preliminary examination, because I rebelled against the testimony that I had been forced to give, I threatened to confess the truth, and did tell my mother that I had testified falsely. I was locked up in a home for fallen women, the Florence Home, and compelled to associate with morphine fiends and low disreputable characters and kept there six weeks, until I agreed to testify at the trial against C. E. Mayne; and when they took me out I was placed under $2000 bond, and in default was placed in custody of Mr. and Mrs. Wright, where I was guarded constantly, and not allowed to see or communicate with my mother, grandfather or any of my friends or relations, and was told that I would be sent to Whittier reform school if I didn't say what I was told to testify to at the trial.

"But immediately after the trial was over, and I was released, I went to my mother and then to one of C. E. Mayne's attorneys, W. J. Murphy, and, voluntarily, without being asked or questioned, confessed that my testimony was false which I had given at the trial of C. E. Mayne, as also was that of my sister."

The affidavit of Della Shipton and others agree in the statement that upon the night of the alleged crime Mayne was in San Dlego.

The Supreme Court ordered that a new trial be granted, basing its decision upon the inadmissability of a family Bible submitted in court at the trial for the purpose of proving Elsie's age. The attorneys connected with the case are agreed that this evidence was trivial and absolutely immaterial, and freely expressed themselves as believing that the decision of the Supreme Court was based primarily upon the affidavits admitting perjury, and that the Bible was brought in merely as a technical excuse.

When Mayne heard of the dismissal yesterday he was one of the happiest men in seven counties. He expressed no surprise, however, as he had expected that such action would be taken. It is evident that there was no course open to the District Attorney other than a dismissal. Nearly every material witness for the prosecution has

For some reasons the parents desired to keep the birth of the child a secret, and the little one was left in the custody of Mrs. Smith, who, in turn, placed it with Mrs. William Dobbins to board. Mrs. Dobbins kept the child for nearly two years, and became much attached to it. Mrs. Smith then demanded the child, but Mrs. Dobbins refused to give it up, and Mrs. Smith instituted habeas corpus proceedings in Judge York's court. The proceedings were not pressed, however, and the writ was dismissed leaving the child with the Dobbins family. Failure to press this case is explained by Mrs. Dobbins on the theory that Mrs. Smith 'earned that the parents of the child were married and that its value was thereby diminished in her estimation.

Later Mrs. Smith concluded that she did want the child after all and applied to Judge Smith for leave to adopt it. Mrs. Dobbins resisted this application, and in the hearing the first time, through the slip of a witness's tongue. It also appeared the sum of the first time, through the slip of a witness' tongue. original charge, and the substitution of a plea of guility to simple assault. Judge Smith then sentenced Barneche to thirty days in the County Jail. The leniency displayed by the District Attorney seems to be based upon a conviction that Barneche was justified in his attempt to "make scarce" a neighbor or two on the ground that the aforesaid neighbors had ignored certain domestic rights in which Barneche was entitled to be the sole beneficiary.

Superior Judges Discuss Means for Their Maintenance.

The matter of providing for the main-The matter of providing for the maintenance of children sent from this county to the Home for Feeble Minded was considered by the Superior judges in bank yesterday afternoon. Superintendent Osborn of the home recently addressed a letter to the District Attorney, in which he stated that unless an appropriation was made by the Supervisors to meet the expense of maintaining those committed from this county, all the immates thus committed would be discharged from that institution November 1.

A statute enacted by the last Legislature provided that after July 1 of this year inmates of the home should be maintained at the expense of the county from which they were committed, instead of by the State, as heretofore. No action had been taken by the officials of Los Angeles county until yesterday.

The court ordered that a list of the names of the children from this county be obtained, together with the names of the committing judges, and the names of the parents. It was the unanimous opinion that a pro rata appropriation of $10 a month should be made in cases where the parents were unable to meet the expense, but that in cases where parents were able to maintain their children at the home the county should not, and would not, be assessed.

A matter calling forth considerable discussion was, the fact that, while the Legislature provided for the main-tenance of the children by the various counties, an appropriation of $100,000 was made for the purpose of defraying the expenses of the home for the present and coming year.

Judge Smith granted a divorce yes terday to Belle Joyce from her husband, N. D. G. Joyce, on the ground of nonsupport. The complaining witness tripped lightly to the stand and ex-plained to the court many of the un-happy incidents that came up during her career as a wife, which covered period of less than two years. She had married when but 16. Shortly after, her husband, who was out of employment proposed that he go to New York City, where he hoped to obtain a position. He explained that he had many friends there, from whom he expected assist-ance, and when once he became settled he would send for his wife. Upon the he would send for his wife. Upon the strength of this representation, the wife testified, he borrowed $200 from her mother with which to pay his expenses to New York. He had been gone only a few weeks when he returned and took up his residence with his mother-in-law. The wife testified yesterday that she was satisfied that Joyce did not intend to seek employment, and that his trip to New York City was merely a "grand-stand play." A divorce was granted.

Sarah J. Cobler was granted a divorce from Frank Cobler by Judge York yesterday on the ground of desertion.

The Idaho people see something in this to brag about. That is nothing, however. Miss Josephine Todman, many assert, has been Governor of California nearly three years, and we are not bragging about it, either.

[Tacoma Ledger:] Mayor Doran of St. Paul has grappled with a rapidly-growing evil, and says in that city at least, the practice of favoring criminals to aid the detectives in their work must stop. The Mayor believes that detective work in the detection of crime can be carried on without "standing in" with well known crooks, who are given immunity on account of their exposures of others, and in this he will have support of good citizens. This abuse has grown to great proportions in the larger cities, and unless checked bids fair to defeat the ends of justice in many more cases than it aids in the detection of criminals.

[Pasadena Star:] The San Francisco papers have recently given to the world, accompanied by huge black head-lines, the news that a den of thievery has been discovered in the Napa Asylum. The intelligence, startling to the State at large, is told that the resident physician has, with the aid of detectives, found that the attendants help themselves to clothing and supplies of all kinds which the State pays for. Though surprising to outside people, the "sensation" is only ridiculous to the people who live in the vicinity, who have known for years that not only attendants, but laborers and mechanics, have worn State shoes, State overalls, and State everything else that they could get hold of; and they will realize that another little political game, the reason for which will appear later on, is on.

SPEED SKATER AND HIS ART.

CLOSE STUDY OF THE WORLD'S CHAMPIONS AND THE SECRET OF THEIR SKILL.

The Physical and Muscular Peculiarities of the Skater-Bony Frame work, Long Legs and Feet, as Well as Length of Thigh and Depth of Chest, Are Important Requirements. World's Champion Stroke 45 Feet.

[From a Special Contributor to The Times.]

HERE must be something irresistibly attractive about speed skating, when crowds will sit patiently in the cold, hour after hour, to see competitors skate in pairs, race after race; scarcely knowing who is winning, but content with merely watching the champions gathered together from the hardiest nations of the world, to settle the question as to which country shall bear off the palm for speed and endurance on the ice track.

The same interest that makes one follow the flight of the gull, skimming the waves with outspread wings and graceful, undulating swoop; the same interest that holds us spellbound before the gymnast in his daring aerial flight from the trapeze to the hands of his partner is awakened at the sight of the skater, as he flies along scarcely touching the ice, and apparently exceeding in speed the bounds of nature, with momentary, unstable pose, now extended like a bird taking wing, or again crouched and tense, like a tiger about to spring on its prey.

There is a marked likeness in the stroke of all the most successful racers. After the first scramble at the start, when they seem to be running on their skates, rather than skating, they soon settle down to the rhythmical swaying swing, with body swerving from side to side, as the weight is changed from one foot to the other, while the head moves on in a direct line The back is flexed at the hips till

In figures 2 and 3 we have Donoghue, the ex-champion, and McCulloch, the amateur world's champion, in characteristic poses, which show them as if spurting at the finish of a race.

It will be noticed that Donoghue skates lower and more crouched than his antagonist. The moment shown is when he gives the final drive with his

Then they are brought down and swung from side to side to help in taking the curve, but it is when the last lap is entered upon and every one among the spectators feels that the moment of supreme interest is approaching, that the real beauty and grace of the skater is shown at its best. The arms are brought into action and swung straight from the shoulder, the body falls unconsciously into poses worthy the best efforts of a sculptor, ever changing with a rapidity the eye can scarcely follow.

CHAMPION RACING POSTURES. CHAMPION RACING POSTURES.

In figure 4 we see Nillson, the present champion of the world, just as he has taken a stroke with the right foot, his arms tense and held ready for the instant when the right foot will be drawn up and shoved forward once more. How beautifully the magnificent thigh muscles swell out and how gracefully the lines of the figure com-pose, expressing the feeling of re-pressed energy and alert strength that is felt in Myron's masterpiece, the disc

The moment shown is when he gives the final drive with his left foot, and in another instant the arms will be across the body, the right straight out and the left bent across to the opposite knee. The sway of the body to the right is well marked at this stake of the stroke, while in figure 3 McCulloch has not yet completed his stroke with the left, and stands with his weight on both feet.

Figure 5 shows Lordhal in a characteristic pose. Besides being a skater he is also gymnast and all-round athlete. His style differs greatly from the others in the swing of the arms forward and backward rather than from side to side. He also skates in a more erect posture than the others, but is not so speedy. In the force and grace of this pose, how closely he approaches in its main lines the gladiator of Agasias, the personification of manly strength and athletic effort.

on whose design much thought has been spent and endless experiments undertaken.

The present Norwegian racing skate, now universally adopted, has most probably been evolved from the ski or long snow shoe, which is still used in traveling across country over the deep snow of a Norwegian winter; to prevent side slipping, they were first grooved and afterward shod with iron and adapted to use on the ice. Axel Paulson, the most prominent figure among the Scandinavian skaters, invented a snow skate with many points common to the ski and the present "reacher" used by the modern racer. He seems to have been of an ingenious turn of mind, for he also invented a skate that emitted a drop of oil at each stroke to minimize friction.

Paulson is credited with the modern style of skating as well as with the perfecting of the modern Norwegian "reacher," which differs materially from the ordinary form.

There is but little change in the make of the modern racing skate. The Norwegians prefer to have the heels raised more than the Canadians or Americans. They believe it helps their speed in short races. McCulloch, the present amateur champion of the world, has the heels slightly raised, the blade broadened and gradually curved upward in front to prevent it cutting too deeply into the ice and tripping him up.

rious lengths to full growth. This year he cut his vines to about two feet and the results are good. Fruit set at the end of the stalk first and filled in to the crown, instead of setting a little bunch at the crown to constitute a first crop. The bunches are large and are evenly distributed.

Mr. Reed has demonstrated to his own satisfaction that close pruning is not essential to get fruit. He thinks by cutting the old wood clear out and leaving the new growth there will be no weakening of the roots. On arbors good bunches of grapes are produced year after year twenty feet from the root. Aside from clearing the ground for cultivating he sees no use in pruning clear back, and does not believe it well to out back to two or three buds.

see the course behind him from between his legs. The thigs are strongly flexed, and the arms kept folded along the back. The main force is exerted by the powerful muscles of the thigh, loins and back, while the muscles of the arms and calves have but little work to do.

CALF MUSCLES NOT DEVELOPED.
There is an idea current that a skater is characterized by large calf muscles, just as is a cyclist or a runner, but this impression is not borne out by the tape measure. The reason of this small development is due in great measure to the shape of the skate, on whose design much thought has been spent and endless experiments undertaken.

The present Norwegian racing skate, now universally adopted, has most probably been evolved from the ski or long snow shoe, which is still used in traveling across country over the deep snow of a Norwegian winter; to year tide slipping, they were first grooved and afterward shod with iron and adapted to use on the ice, Axel Paulson, the most prominent figure among the Scandinavian skaters, in vented a snow skate with many points common to the ski and the present "reacher" used by the modern racer. Paulson is credited with the modern accer. The same is partially true of the Norwegians. The laws of evolution are curiously illustrated in the type of figure seen i graceful exponent of the art.

PECULIAR PHYSICAL DEVELOPMENT.

The physical peculiarities of the skater, which are well illustrated in his figure, are seen both in the bony framework and the muscular development (Figure 1.) The body is short, the chest deep and capacious, the thigh bones are abnormally long, the legs are long, as are the feet, while the arch of the foot is flat, making the instep large and broad. In muscular development we see still more marked peculiarities. The neck and back are strong and muscular, as a result of the crouched position. The arms are small and weak, the muscles of the loins are well developed by the constant swaying while the extensor muscles about the hip joint and the muscles of the thigh are magnificently developed, and swell out beautiful and clean-cut under the skin of a skater in good condition. The calves are as a rule poorly developed, for these leg muscles are enlarged by such movements as raise the heel, the body weight being on the ball of the foot, and this action is prevented by the long skate, except just at the end of the stroke, when they are unable, from the quickness of the motion, to put much force into the movement. This peculiarity of figure is rendered indistinct in many men who cycle in summer and skate in winter, but Johnson and McCulloch, both expert whelmen, have told me that at the end of their skating season their calf measurement is always at least one inch less than when they put away their wheel for the winter.

We gave the non-commissioned officers a world of through. They stood it for awhile, but gradually the punishments grew more and more severe. I never knew a man to be executed for disobedience of orders, but some of them would have preferred decth to the sufferings they were made to endure. As time went on the officers came to realize that our early reverses were due as much to a lack of discipline as to anything eise, and they began to enforce strict obedience with the lron hand. Offenses that in time of peace would at best have been visited only with a reprimand were made occasion for confinement and bread and water. The general effect was salutary. One fing floating over a common country is evidence of that fact, but it was tough while it lasted.

There is a phenomenal demand for shingles east of the Rocky Mountains and the sawmills of Washington, and of Humboldt county, in this State, are kept running night and day. The price has advanced from $1 a thousand to $1.35, with a prospect that it will go still higher. The shingles made on this Coast have driven the eastern shingles out of the market, which is now being supplied by the product of Weshington and California.

It is estimated that 2000 carloads a month are shipped to the East at present, and those who are in a position to know, state that the output this year will exceed 15,000 carloads. The superiority of the California redwood shingles over the red cedar shingles of the Washington forests is becoming well known, and, in consequence, the orders for the redwood article are increasing daily. One firm alone received an order recently from the East for sixty carloads. A member of the Pacific Lumber Company is outed in the San Francisco Call as follows:

THE FLORIDA ORANGE CROP. THE FLORIDA ORANGE CROP. Officers of the Florida Fruit Exchange are quoted by the Fruitman's Guide as estimating the fruit crop of Florida this year at between 150,000 and 200,000 boxes. The crop would probably have reached 250,000 boxes, had it not been for the drought in the spring and early summer. This caused quantities of small oranges to drop from the trees, especially in the middle orange-growing section of the State. In 1898 the probabilities are, freezes and droughts barred, that the crop will reach as high as 600,000 boxes.

PEANUT BUTTER. Peanut butter is a new product which has recently appeared on the market in the East. An exchange says it is similar in consistency to ordinary butter, has a rich peanut odor, and is designed to be used the same as the dairy article. The principal claim made for it is its wholesomeness and freedom from the dangers that are alleged to be found in animal fats.

GENERAL BUSINESS TOPICS.

THE HOME-PRODUCTS LAW, The eastern papers continue to comment, in an unfavorable manner, upon the law enacted by the recent California Legislature, which makes it incumbent upon State, county and city officials to give the preference to home products in purchasing supplies. These eastern papers appear to be laboring under a mistaken idea as to the nature of the law. They seem to think that it absolutely bars out all products and manufactures from outside of the State, which is far from being the case. Following is a copy of the main clause of this law:
"Any person, committee, board offi-rom being the case. Following is a copy of the main clause of this law:

"Any person, committee, board, officer or any other person, charged with the purchase, or permitted or authorized to purchase supplies, goods, wares, merchandise, manufactures or produce for the use of the State, or any of its institutions or offices, or for the use of any county or consolidated city or town, shall always, price, fitness and quality being equal, prefer such supplies, goods, warss, merchandise, manufactures and produce as have been grown, manufactured or produced in this State, and shall next prefer such as have been partially so manufactured, grown or produced in this State. All State, county, city and county, city or town officers, all boards, commissions or other persons charged with advertising for any such supplies shall state in their advertisement that such preference will be made. In any such advertisement no bid shall be asked for any article of any specific brand or mark or any patent apparatus or appliances when such requirement would prevent proper competition on the part of dealers of other articles of equal value, utility or merit."

From this it will be seen that the ers of other articles of equal value, attility or merit.

From this it will be seen that the preference is to be given to articles of home manufacture only when other conditions are equal. This is certainly mot an unreasonable provision. Laws of a similar character are found in several castern States. It is quite proper and justifiable for every community to give the preference to articles of home production, other things being equal. This is a very different thing from barring out entirely the products of a sister commonwealth.

THE DECIDUOUS-FRUIT ASSO-CIATION. Unlike some similar organi-gations that have been formed, the De-ciduous Fruit Growers' Association, which met to take preliminary steps for organization last week, is composed of representative large orchardists. The members of the Committee on Organi-sation represent over 2500 acres of or-chard.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—The conviction that a rupture in our relations with Spain will ultimately result from the Cuban situation; the dauger that the Union Pacific reorganization plan will be upset by the government's desiro to pastipone the sale, and the weakness in New York Central, due to yesterday's disaster of its line, combined to break the stock marks today, and demoralised prices throughout the list. The lower prices for American securities in London, and the deciline in the price of Spanish as there of ½ for cent. to 58%, were accepted as a means of the apprehension felt there as to the harm that would be done values by the threatened rupture. The opening showed sharp declines in the international stocks and apocalities, and by noon losses of a point had spread to practically every active stock in the list. There was a lull in the activity of liquidation, and at that time a steadying of prices based on a hope that the bupreme Court would hand down a favorable decision in the Nebraska freight-rate case, and that prices of railway property would tend to improve as a result. A sharp raily in Chicago Gas on the announcement of the sovernment's decision to apply for postponement of the foreclosure sale of the Union Pacific and Kansas Pacific properties brought out enormous liquidation of Union Pacific stocks. NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—The Evening Post's London financial-cablegram sys: "The stock markets were dull to flat today. Americans were especially weak, monetary conditions and the nearness of the settlement of the Cuban question being given as reasons for the weakness; but there is no doubt that the fact that a number of options will fail due at the end of the month induces dealers to keep down prices. It is not likely that the Bank of England's discount rate will advance this week, but the German rate may possibly go up. The average contango on Americans at the settlement tomorrow will probably be 4½ per cent. The Paris and Berlin markets were weak all day." European Stock Markets.

Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—Wheat opened about 1 cent lower than it closed Saturday, several causes contributing to bring about that radical change. Liverpool quotations were \( \frac{1}{2} \) do lower to begin with, and the Northwestern receipts were heavy. The world's chipments for the week to Europe were again heavy and considerably in excess of their estimated requirements. The total quantity from all ports, exclusive of India, was \( \).026,000 bushels, against \( \).030 bushels last week, and \( \).271,000 bushels the corresponding week of the year before. Chicago receipts were \( \)256,cars. Apart from the heaviness of the day's receipts, however, the news from the Northwest was very builtsh. Estimates by good judges as to the crop of the three principal wheat-producing States placed the total at from 110,000,000 to 210,000,000 bushels, a considerable reduction from recent figures. London advices were to the effect that France was still bidding for native English wheat, but that there was no more available, and Russian wheat in Leondon was said to have advanced from \( 2d \) to \( 6d \) per quurter.

The fluctuations hung for an hour and a half on the varying aspects of the visible aupply, as the figures favored or diavored a larger or smaller increase than had been estimated Saturday. The natural outcome of it was an increase rather smaller than had been looked for, the amount being \( \) \( 6d \) bushels, against an increase for the similar week last year of \( 2.47,000 \) bushels. December touched \( 5d \). the highest point of the session, shortly after the announcement of the visible increase figures. The quantity on cean passage increased \( 800,000 \) bushels, and the exports from Atlantic ports for the day were \( 500,000 \) bushels, as far as heard from. Liverpool closed \( \frac{6}{9} \) lies were livered and there was no inquiry for wheat for shipment here or reported elsewhere. The plt filled with sellers, and the price dropped to 124 for Decembe

And who are they? THEY are simply the doctors of the great Hudsonian Institute. They declare in the clearest way possible that, no matter how "run down" you have tried to get help so often that you are afraid that it is "all up with you." It is not. That's true.

Yes, just say to yourself that you will cease your follies; make up four mind that you will try t ofind help; awear that you will do it today—and on tho mation's birthday your friends will not know you. Those shaking hands, those sleepless and wearing nights will all be gone. There will be no more gloom, but full joy.

YOU

Yes, YOU say to yourself that there is no hope for YOU. And why not, in the name of all that is sensoile? If that grand remedio-treatment "Hudyan" can save ten thousand people, can it not save you? Why, it is folly to think that. You may have abused your opportunities; you may have neglected your duties, but you can still live.

CAN

Can you manage to gather together enough energy to go to or write to the big Hudsonian Institute; which has done so much for failing manhood? If you can, you will get at once free testimonials and circulars showing you exactly what has been done for others. It will be as well done for you. Puny mortal that you are, for once in your life do try to brace up.

The staff of doctors at the big institute are at all times willing to give medical advice free. Now, for instance, if you have a case of blood taint—which is clearly shown by falling out of the hair; by sore throat, by lumps on the body—just write and ask for circulars and testimonials of the "Thirty-day Cure." It may save you years of suffering. Stockton, Market and Ellis streets.

PROBABLY FATAL ACCIDENT TO

Prospects of a Successful Race Meet-Was Hurt by a Playmate-Young Woman's Arm Broken - Notes

SANTA ANA, Oct. 25.—[Regular Correspondence.] By the accidental discharge of a gun, Lemuel Robinson received injuries Sunday morning which make his chances of life very slim. Both eyes are probably lost, and his skull is fractured.

The boy is the fourteen year-old son of W.

The boy is the fourteen-year-old son of W. K. Robinson, who lives in Trabuco Cafon, twenty-five miles from Santa Ana. Sunday morning he was hunting with a double-barreled shotgun. The ejecter was broken and Mr. Robinson had given him a light steel rod with which to force out the empty shells. For some reason he had trouble also in getting the loaded shells into the gun, so he placed the muzzle against his foot and proceeded to hammer a loaded shell into the breech with the rod. One of his blows struck the cap and discharged the shell, the load passing through his foot and the shell rebounding into his face. His eyes were blinded by the powder, and a circular fracture two inches or more in diameter was made in his skull.

The boy was brought to this city, where he is now under the care of physicians.

RACE PROGRAMME. RACE PROGRAMME.

Details for the opening of the race meet have been satisfactorily arranged, and everything seems to point to this as the most successful in the history of the Orange County Association. The track is in excellent shape, owing to the light rain Saturday evening, and is in fine condition for some fast horse to make or break a record.

Four carloads of horses have arrived at the track since Saturday, among the notables being Klamath, Searchlight, Col. Benton, Selkirk, Anaconda, Betonica, Neernut, Daisy Wood, Iron Alto, Pasonte and Ethel Downes. Marco Forster's horses were brought in Saturday.

Marco Forster's horses were brought in Saturday.

The meeting will open Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock with a grand Spanish barbecue at the fair grounds, which will be presided over by Don Marco Forster. Promptly at 1 o'clock the special race between Klamath and Silkwood will be called. Silkwood has been carefully handled since his return from Los Angeles, and will be put in the race. Two more races will be run in afternative heats, the 2:30 pace and the half-mile and repeat. A special race for five local horses has been arranged, and will probably be run tomorrow. The horses and owners are as follows: Alcazette, J. E. Snow; Trinkett, J. C. Clark; Velvet, L. F. Clapp; Harry Gates, C. Farrar, and Lady Florence. Cash Harvey. The race will be for a stake amounting to 3100.

President J. E. Pleasants has been selected, as usual, to act as judge, with W. A. Beckett and C. E. Parker as associates. The timers will be R. J. Blee and Cash Harvey. Mr. Pleasants will start the horses in harness and George Willett the runners. Theo Lacy will be marshal.

A movement is on foot among the local merchants in favor of closing their houses of business during one or two days of the race meeting, and also to make a suitable display of bunting during the continuance of the races.

FATAL RESULTS OF AN ACCIDENT.
The accident to Henry Gerken of Orange, which occurred two weeks ago, has resulted fatally, the little fellow's sufferings having ended this morning. The boy, who was 10 years old, was playing with his schoolmates, and a sharp-pointed stick thrown by one of them struck Henry in the face, the point entering at the base of the right eye. The eyeball was gouged out in a frightful manner, and the stick penetrated to the brain, inflicting an injury that has proved fatal.

SAN PEDRO.

Electric Railway to Los Angeles is a Reasonable Probability.

SAN PEDRO, Oct. 25.—[Regular Correspondence.] A sure-enough electric railway from Los Angeles to this city is a reasonable probability. Patiently nursed expectations in this line have been verified in part by the appearance of an engineering party of eight men, who are engaged in a survey of a route from San Pedro to Gardena. The members of the party have been very reticent, but it has been practically impossible for them to work unobserved, for engineering instruments are not readily concealed.

From other sources it is learned that right-of-way for an electric road from Los Angeles to the San Pedro city limits has been secured. Property-owners along the proposed route have shown a liberal disposition, which has made it less difficult to get a strip of land to run on.

Carl Rosecrans, a son of Gen. Rosecrans, has been a frequent visitor in town of late, and there is reason to believe that he is devoting a considerble proportion of his time to the proposition.

An important feature in the situation is the fact that W. S. Hook, president of the Los Angeles Traction Company, is interested in the proposed line. As Mr. Hook has established a reputation for pressing to a conclusion anything he undertakes, his connection with the plan gives it an appearance of solidity.

The proposed route extends northerly from SAN PEDRO, Oct. 25.-[Regular Correspondgeles.

These facts afford ground for conjecture as to probable extensions of the line. It would require no great addition to the mileage to build a branch line to Long Beach. Then, again, there is the not improbable extension to Redondo. SAN PEDRO BREVITIES. Capt. Bjorn of the schooner Meteor is con-ned to his quarters, aboard the vessel, with

The yacht Rambler returned today from a fortnight's cruise to Santa Barbara and San Clemente islands. Six goats, a big eagle and a nine-foot shark were captured. Besides Joseph Johnson of Los Angeles, owner of the craft, the members of the party were: Charles Johnson of Los Angeles, F. O. Barkley, editor of the Redondo Breeze; Capt, Hanson and Charles Williams of this city.

REDLANDS.

Opposition to the Fixed-price Plan of Selling Oranges.

of Selling Oranges.

REDLANDS, Oct. 25.—[Regular Correspondence.] The action of the Horticultural Club in indorsing a committee's report that names $3.25 as the price per box at which the Christmas crop of oranges is to be sold, is being generally commented upon, and while the growers want to get all they can for their fruit, there are many who openly express themselves as opposed to fixing an arbitrary price. The outlook is for an unusually large and excellent crop of oranges, and the unanimity of opinion that prevails among the parties interest d to make the most of it cannot be questioned. But a diversity of opinion exists as to how this result may best be attained, and there are many who do not believe the arbitrary-price system to be the best way.

The first monthly reports of the several public schools of Redlands show a noticeable increase in attendance over last year.

The Telephone in Prospecting.

A novelty in the employment of the telephone is to be tried by a party of five young men, who are now on their way to the Klondike. These gold hunters propose to travel together until they have reached land which gives good promise of paying. In this spot they will plant a dry battery, from which wires will be run. The wires are of the lightest of insulated copper, and each man will carry a spool sufficient to run him a day or two while prospecting. Each night the wires will be tapped, and the transmitting instruments which the men carry will be attached. Then each man will tell the other of his day's luck. As soon as cone strikes a lead which looks like panning out well, the others can be summoned, and will be able to locate the find by following the leading wire. In case neither finds a paying claim from the first battery station, all of them will return, pack up their stores, trudge on, and repeat their method elsewhere. The "engineer" of the party is a telephone lineman, with whom the plan originated, and the expert side of the prospecting will be under the direction of a practical miner of long experience in California and other mining States. A man can easily carry enough wire to cover a distance of five or more miles. Besides affording him a means of direct communication with his friends, it will be a guide for him back to his starting point, and will insure him against being lost. The intention of the party is to prospect in a careful manner; to go over the ground thoroughly, so that nothing be missed. In case of a strike, it will not take more than half a day to have all five of the party on the ground. On paper the plan is most fascinating, and if it should succeed no hunting or mining party will henceforth be completely equipped without its portable telephone.

Electric Brakes.

Electric Brakes Not long ago, the electric brake was Not long ago, the electric brake was counted among the "far-offs" of electrical invention. Not that inventors had not tried their bands at it—they have been doing that off and on for many years—but there were practical difficulties which no cleverly-devised and theoretically-apparently perfect appliance could overcome. But the electric brake has at last gained a footing, and for twelve months it has been trio brake has at last gained a footing and for twelve months it has been giving excellent results on the electric railroad in Dresden, on which 200 cars have been equipped with it. These brakes act upon the car axle, which is not driven by the electric motor. They are fixed both on the motor car and upon each of the trailers, and act simultaneously. The brakes act in about one-third of the time of the hand-brakes. Trials with both show that the electric brake stopped a car going at the rate of fifteen miles an hour within fourteen yards, while a car with a hand brake going at twelve miles an hour traveled thirty-five yards after the brake was applied. In Berlin, where the system of electric braking is also employed, the brake acts upon the motor direct, and there is no brake on the trailing cars. When going at the usual speed within the city, these cars are stopped within eight yards. It is now beyond question that the braking systems of the future for railway work will be electrical. A disinguished inventor and electrical engineer has recently invented an electrical brake of wonderful simplicity and efficiency, which gives infinitely better working results than any method of braking yet known to the public.

Audibility of Thunder.

In connection with the proposal to es tablish a number of government sta

thunderstorms, it is stated that, whil-lightning may be seen and its illumi-nation of clouds and mist may be re-ognized when it is even 200 miles dis nation of clouds and mist may be recognized when it is even 200 miles distant, thunder is rarely audible ten miles. The thunder from very distant storms, therefore, seldom reaches the ear. Hence, if every thunderstorm has to be recorded, a large number of stations will be needed, probably one for every twenty-five square miles would not be too many; a few stations would suffice, at least for the nighttime, for the reporting of the direction and movement of every case of distant lightning. The reason of the great uncertainty in the audibility of thunder is not hard to understand. It depends not merely on the initial intensity of the crash, but quite as much on the surroundings of the observer, even as in the quiet country one will observe feeble sounds that escape the ear in a noisy city. Perhaps the most curious and important condition of audibility is that the thunder or wave of sound shall not be refracted or reflected by the layers of warm and cold air between the observer and the lightning or by the layers of warm and cold air between the observer and the lightning or by the layers of wind, swift above and slow below, so as to entirely pass over or around the observer. Sound, in its wave-like progress obliquely through layers of air of different densities, is subject to refraction, and this refraction may occur at any time and place. Thus observers at the topmast of a ship frequently hear fog whistles that are subject to retraction, and this retraction may occur at any time and place. Thus observers at the topmast of a shi frequently hear fog whistles that ar inaudible at sea level; those on hill tops hear thunder that cannot be hear in the yalley; those in front of an obstacle hear sounds inaudible to those behind it. The rolling of thunder, lik behind it. The rolling of thunder, that of a distant cannonade, may largely due to special reflections refractions of sound. Again, refractions of sound. Again, the greater velocity of the air at considera-ble altitudes above the ground distorts the sound wave and shortens the limit of audibility to the leeward, while increasing it to the windward.

A Modern Jack Cade. [New York Commercial Advertiser: [New York Commercial Advertiser:]
Henry George is making very free and careless promises. In his speech Saturday night he pledged himself, if elected, to make of New York "a city in which no poverty shall be known." This recalls the famous promise of Jack Cade. "There shall be in England seven halfpenny loaves sold for a penny; the three-hooped pot shall have ten hoops; and I will make it felony to sell small beer. All the realm shall be in common, and in Cheapside shall my palfrey go to grass." Here seems to be the original of the Henry George theory of the nationalization of land.

Pullman's Fortune. [Chicago Tribune:] One thing should be remarked in the career of the late George M. Pullman. He owed his great wealth not to special privileges, but to natural ability and force exhibiting itself in inventiveness and organizing strength. In a republic in which a mar starting life with nothing but brains and energy can achieve Mr. Pullman's wealth and position within the space of less than sixty years, there is no cause of despair, in spite of all the vaporings of the professional pessi-

THE KING."

OW WELL HE KNOWS THE GREATEST BUILDING ON EARTH, ward F. Kennedy, the Encycle pedic Guide to the National Capitol—Its Historical Paintings nd Magnificent Bronze Doors.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.) WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Howard F. Kennedy is called the "King of the Guides" at the Capitol. He has acquired eminence and prominence in his profession by hard work. He has only been in Washington during the past four years, and by dint of hard study and close, careful observation he has become the best posted of all the guides, and is able to give minute-descriptions of every corner and crevice of the marble building on the hill. The records of the office of the Supervising Architect of the Capitol contain historical data of great interest, but Mr. Kennedy is the only guide who has taken time to delve in those records and glean from them accurate information. It is not a difficult matter to stand around, listen to others talk, and gradually acquire information concerning the edifice, but to get right down to studious research and burrow in books is different. It is, however, the only way to become accurate and reliable. Mr. Kennedy is a man of rotund figure, 42 years old, about 5 ft. 5 in. in height, neat and cleanly always, and gentlemanly of address.

It is interesting to see him in the rotunda offering his services to strangers as they enter the handsome central room of the magnificent structure. The guides wear badges showing that they are authorized to conduct strangers about and entertain them, yet it often happens that timid visitors fear to trust them, and decline their services. A gentleman and lady entered from the east portico this afternoon, and, when Mr. Kennedy politely spoke to them and offered to conduct them through the building, the gentleman rudely refused. "The King" came over near the picture of De Soto discovering the Mississippi River, and said:

"That stranger is an Englishman. He is just over and has not been in America more than a week. No, I neversaw him before, but have been accustomed to seeing people and reading them like books, so that I don't need a diagram of a man's pedigree in order to know who and what he is. That man is an Englishman, and he will be back here seon, looking for me. He will discover in a very few minutes that he needs me."

The painting of Brumidi, who was enthusiastically employed for a lifetime in beautifying the Capitol with his b passing, I will say, however, that it is the only true Italian frescoed canopy in America.

Sure enough, inside of ten minutes the stalwart gentleman, accompanied by the lady, returned and looked around the rotunda, as though seeking something lost. Mr. Kennedy was looking for them, and quietly walked toward them. The gentleman immediately engaged his services, and off they went for a tour of the building. This evening Mr. Kennedy said: "The most conservative foreigners are the English. They always refuse the services of a guide, because they feel they can take care of themselves. But they soon find that they are in the most wonderful building on earth, and, because they are intelligent, they seek a guide. After going all over the Capitol and seeing the wonderful work of Brumidi, the painter, as well as the skillful results achieved by the architects, they invariably declare it to be the greatest building on earth."

Mr. Kennedy gives interesting details concerning the building. For example, he has ascertained that there are $,909,000 pounds of iron in the superstructure of the dome. The building is $80 feet long: the height, to the crown of the Goddess of Freedom, is 307½ feet.

Concerning Statuary Hall, Mr. Kennedy says: "The floor of that room was six feet lower than it is now when the House held its meetings there. In January, 1859, when the House moved into its new quarters, the floor was covered with concrete and raised six feet to a level with the rotunds, and the mosaic tiling, laid upon that solid into its new quarters, the floor was covered with concrete and raised six feet to a level with the rotunda, and the mosaic tiling, laid upon that solid concrete, increased the echoing qualities of the room. The reason that there are no statues here from the Southern States is that, by resolution of Congress, passed in July, 1864, the room was devoted to statues of two heroes from each State then in the Union, and consequently the Southern States have no place in the hall. Capt. Jack Decker erected all of these statues, lifting them upon their pedestals by the crudest machinery, because the architect will allow no derrick or other modern machinery in the house.

"Mr. Decker is the man who also lifted the Statue of Freedom, weighing 15,000 pounds, to the top of the dome. He discovered the crude use of the telephone. When the workmen were hammering all ground the roof dome, making bedlam, and no sound could metals to be seen the search process.

hammering all around the fron dome, making bedlam, and no sound could reach the workmen, Jack Decker discovered that by talking at one end of the rope his voice would be carried to his workmen 200 feet in the air.

"The great bronze doors which now stand in the east entrance to the rotunda used to be at the south entrance to Statuary Hall. These doors cost $28,500, weigh ten tons, and are copies of the celebrated Ghiberti doors at the Bantistry of Florence, Italy: except Baptistry of Florence, Italy; except that the Ghiberti doors are commemorative of Biblical events, and the Capitol doors mnemonic of events in the life of Columbus."

iffe of Columbus."

"The King" went on to the Senate wing, and showed something which nobody would know, or could know, without learning it from one who knows all about details. The bronze doors at the cast door of the Senate wing of the Capitol cost $56,000. They were designed by Crawford, cast by the Ames foundry at Chicopee, Mass.; weigh 14,000 pounds, and were placed in position in 1868. They contain numerous figures representing revolutionary history, and are regarded as the finest bronze work in America.

repeat one-hundredth part of the things this singularly acute gentleman told. To him every stone has a history, every corridor is a picture. He does not especially admire the immense paintings in the rotunda, because, while they represent great historic events in American history, and are exceedingly large in size, he does not regard them as valuable works of art. To those who have artistic tastes and culture, Mr. Kennedy delights in pointing out the beauties of Brumidi's work in the committee rooms, and along the walls of the basement corridors of the Senate wing of the Capitol. Every inch of the wall has been dors of the Senate wing of the Capitol. Every inch of the wall has been touched by the brush of a master. Every touch has a historic significance, and these are the points of detail which are explained by this plodding, delving guide who does our studying for us and entertainingly instructs us. He has become a necessity at the Capitol, and his friends hope that he may long continue in life, health and strength to benefit the public.

Another Forty-niner Gone. Another Forty-niner Gone.

C. S. Perham, whose funeral took place Sunday last, under Masonic auspices, was a forty-niner. He came to California, around the Horn, in the ship Hamilton. He remained here a few years and then returned to Boston, from whence he went to Kansas to take charge of an anti-slavery paper, the Leavenworth Leader. During those stormy times it required courage to fill such a position. Mr. Perham afterward was chosen secretary of the Northern such a position. Mr. Perham afterward was chosen secretary of the Northern Pacific Railroad, and on his again returning to Boston became a member of the council of that city. On the election of Harrison he was appointed to a responsible position in the Boston customhouse, which position he was obliged to resign on account of failing health. The mild climate of California prolonged his life for eight years. He leaves a widow, a sister of G. W. Hersee of this city. He was a just man, a man of strict integrity. G.

OUTBREAKS OF HUMOR.

Too Much Strain. [Indianapolis Journal:] "Women," said the cynical boarder, "seem to be utter failures as negro minstrels."
"Of course," said the Cheerful Idiot.
"It is too much of a strain for a woman to keep her face corked up for three hours."

The Political Elements.

[Chicago Daily News:] "Tell me, rofessor," said the inquisitive student, are the three elements, fire, water nd air, political elements?" "No, not exactly, replied the profes-sor; but the political elements are somewhat similar."

"What are they, professor?" asked

A Brilliant Remark.

A Choice of Animals.

[Indianapolis Journal:] "I have noticed," said the Cheerful Idiot, "that a man takes much more satisfaction in the knowledge that he has made an ass of himself than he does in knowing that others have made a monkey

A Candidate for Governor.

A Candidate for Governor.

[San José Mercury:] The Hon. James G. Maguire is a candidate for Governor, and next year will ask the nomination of the Democratic party.

James G. Maguire is no ordinary candidate. He is not a self-nominated candidate; he is the choice and candidate of quite a number of people. He is well known in this State. He has been tried in several public places. He did good work as a member of the State Legislature. He was a Superior Judge in San Francisco, and we know he was intelligent and believe he was fair and honest. As a member of the national Legislature he has attracted considerable attention. This is not strange or unusual. He is a man of strong convictions and pronounced and announced ideas and purposes. His course has James G. Maguire is no ordinary candidate. This is not strange or not self-nominated considerable attention. This is not strange or not self-nominated considerable attention. This is not strange or not self-nominated considerable attention. This is not strange or not self-nominated considerable attention. This is not strange or not self-nominated considerable attention. This is not strange or not self-nominated considerable attention. This is not strange or not self-nominated considerable attention. This is not strange or not self-nominated considerable attention. This is not strange or not self-nominated considerable attention. This is not strange or not self-nominated considerable and purposes. His course has been criticised by many and approved by more than criticised. We make, therefore, an important announcement when we say "James G. Maguire will receive the Democrate nomination. Suppose he does. Who can defeat him?"

It is possible, even probable, Maguire will receive the Democrate nomination. Suppose he does. Who can defeat him? What Republican is his equal in finess or his superior in popularity? Where is the man. The Mercury is Republican in season and out of season. We adverted the more policy of the Nonsurance Company of A skillfully receive the successful principles of that party; we know and feel the religion of the Republican party. The principles of the Democratic party are either impractical or outgrown. They won't work. They do not bring good results; they are work and the problematic

Maguire, an able lawyer, an honest judge, a faithful Congressman, is one thing; as a Democratic Governor, quite another. He could not rise above his party. However able or honest, he could not give us a successful administration. The people have had quite enough of the present Democratic party. It is all pretension; all theory; all nonsense; it is full of exclamations and superlatives. It wants to reform everybody. It has been at the same job a long time. It never begins at home. It goes on and on and on. It wants the offices, and it generally manages to get a good share of them. It is never satisfied; it wants them again is never satisfied; it wants them again and more of them. Think as we may, James G. Maguire will be Governor if and more of them. Think as we may, James G. Maguire will be Governor if we do not keep our eyes open. He can be defeated, but it will not do to consider him lightly. He is a dangerous candidate, viewed from a party standpoint. We must fight him with sincerity and well-defined principles. We must first find a man to stand for our principles. Who shall it be? Will it be Morehouse or Fitzgerald? If the party will permit both to stand on an honest platform of principles, sound Republican principles, either could be elected. Both are as honest and as able as Maguire, but no more so. They represent better business principles than does Maguire. The State would advance more, would be more steady and prosperous guided by Morehouse or Fitzgerald than by Maguire. If it were not for a little strain of pardonable ambition, Maguire would himself say as much. Of course, the San Francisco tion, Maguire would himself say as much. Of course, the San Francisco Examiner would not say it, for it is dishonest. And we will yet hear Maguire say: "God save me from my yellow friend."

Modjeska's Many-sidedness [Amy Leslie in Chicago News:] With eath of olive branches and moun tain air about her, Modjeska arrived suddenly, in the prettiest sort of motherliness, illustrated a fable by singing a nursery rhyme in which her fairy finger and thumb were the hero and heroine, singing the addresses of "Thumby, Thumby, dear," to his sweetheart, "Little Finger," accompanying the comic tragedy with complete dramatic action betwen the protesting, little lovers upon her hand. It was the neatest bit of enchantment imaginable, and quite captivated the amused listeners, being so distinct and convincing a revelation of her characteristic adaptability.

Pittburgh's Woman Architect. [Pittsburgh Dispatch:] Pittsburgh has a female architect, whose work is making her famous, and whom a Dispatch representative watched at her work and tried to interview. But she was far too busy to sit and sing her own praises.

It is not an unknown fact that Miss Elise Mercur is the only woman architect in the city, and the fact that it was her plans which were accepted for the fine new buildings for the female seminary at Washington, Pa., has also been published.

But a peculiar coincidence is that,

But a peculiar coincidence is that, with a young woman making the plans for the buildings at the new college, a woman was also awarded the contract for their construction. Together they are working hand in hand, erecting this temple, of learning for women, and are working hand in hand, erecting this temple of learning for women, and building up a monument for themselves that, in the years to come, they will be able to point to with the greatest of pride and honor.

It is Mrs. Clara Meade of Chicago who has the contract for the construction of the buildings, the plans for which were designed by Miss Mercur. Mrs. Meade is as much of a representative of the advanced woman as is Miss

Nor would they think that the woman end of the firm does the greater part

It is Mrs. Meade who makes out the bids from the plans that are furnished, and she is able to do it so well that the firm is kept busy all of the time.
